

Sing a Song of Aesop

Sing a song of Aesop,
Sing a song of stories told.
Morals can be fun to learn,
Whether you are young or old.

First we'll meet a speedy hare,
and the tortoise he did race.
Next, an ant who gathered food for the winter, just in case.

Then, we'll meet a shepherd boy who was caught in telling lies.
Then, a lion and a mouse
who were friends in spite of size.
What a surprise!

Sing a song of Aesop,
sing a song of stories told.
Morals can be fun to learn,
whether you are young or old.
Sing a song, short or long,
right or wrong, Sing a song!

Will Anybody Dare?

Will anybody dare to race the Hare?
We're asking here and we're asking over there.

We're asking all the birds to race the Hare.
Birds: We say to you, No! It really isn't fair!

Will anybody dare to race the Hare?
Only answer if you dare!

Now let us ask the Bear to race the Hare.

Bear: I say to you, No!
I haven't got a prayer!

So let us ask the Fox to race the Hare.

Fox: I say to you, No!
A race gives me a scare!

Will anybody dare to race the Hare?

Only answer if you dare!

Well, Woodchuck would you dare to race
the Hare?

Woodchuck: I say to you, No!
I'll watch from over there!

So let us ask the Mare to race the Hare.

Mare: I say to you, No!
He'd beat me by a hair.

Will anybody dare to race the Hare?

Only answer if you dare!

Will anybody dare to race the Hare?

We're asking here:

(CODA)

We haven't got a prayer
We'll watch from over there
A race gives us a scare
He's much to debonaire
It really isn't fair!

IT'S NOT FAIR (spoken)

Lullaby

Feel the breeze, 'neath the trees,
Such a soft spot for sleeping.
Close your eyes from the sun.
For the race is nearly won.

Mister Hare, not a care,
As you drift off to dreamland.
Go to sleep, slumber deep;
Soon you'll run across the stream.

Linger there, Mister Hare,
While the Tortoise is creeping.
Sleep so soft, in your bed,
For you were so far ahead.

Mister Hare, not a care,
As you drift off to dreamland.
Go to sleep, slumber deep;
Soon you'll run across the stream.

Soon you'll run across the stream.

Slow and Steady Wins the Race

If you want to win the race, keep a slow and
steady pace,
Or you'll end up in disgrace! Slow and
steady wins the race!
The hare knew he was faster, the tortoise not so much.

It ended in disaster, the hare was out of touch!

If you want to win the race, keep a slow and
steady pace,
Or you'll end up in disgrace! Slow and
steady wins the race!
Slow and steady wins the race!

The Grasshopper's Lament

I used to be the lazy one,
I loved to sing and play!
I frolicked in the summer sun
and danced the hours away!
I worked and worked the whole day through to gather all I could;
but all you did was laugh at me
and now you have no food!

The days were getting shorter and still I didn't care.
I wasn't really worried for
I had time to spare.
I knew I had to hurry
for winter time was near;
I gathered lots of seeds and grass and did not have to fear!

The winter winds began to blow,
the snow began to fall;
I did not have a thing to eat,
not anything at all.
The moral of this story is very plain to say;
"Don't put off 'til tomorrow
what you can do today!"

Home is Where the Heart Is

"Home is where the heart is,"
that is what they say.
Where there's love and family,
you will find your way.
Home is where the heart is,
home is what you know.
Where there's love and family,
you can thrive and grow.

Home, sweet home.
Oh, home sweet home!
Sing a song of home sweet home!
Home, sweet home.
Oh, home sweet home!
Sing a song of home sweet home!

Do not wish for riches, do not wish for gold.
"Keep your pleasures simple,"
that's what we are told.
Home is where the heart is,
home is all you need.
Where there's love and family,
you can thrive in deed!

Home, sweet home.
Oh, home sweet home!
Sing a song of home sweet home!
Home, sweet home.
Oh, home sweet home!
Sing a song of home sweet home!

Sing A Song of Friendship

Sing a song of friendship,
a happy song of friendship!
If a promise you have made,
and you come to someone's aid,
You will have the debt repaid!
Learn this fable, if you're able!

Sing a song of friendship,
a jolly song of friendship!
Whether you are short or tall,
whether you are big or small,
Summer, winter, spring or fall,
be a friend to one and all!
Be a friend, true to the end. Be a friend!

Honesty is Always Best

The shepherd boy, he did not tell the truth, which really wasn't very nice!
He thought it fun to play a trick,
and now he has to pay the price!
No one believes a boy who lies,
even if it's only once or twice.
To this we surely can attest: honesty is always best!

(Hum or whistle verse)
No one believes a boy who lies,
even if it's only once or twice.
To this we surely can attest:
honesty is always, honesty is always,
Honesty is always best!
